Computational Study of Carbon Nanotubes Embedded in Silicon

JAREN NORRIS, Brigham Young University — Inspired by recent experimental success in coating carbon nanotubes with silicon, I am computationally modeling carbon nanotubes embedded in silicon using density functional theory. I am studying mechanical, electrical and optical properties as a function of nanotube size and orientation in the silicon lattice.

Jaren Norris
Brigham Young University