Suppression of Double-Tearing Modes by Poloidal Shear Flows

XIAOGANG WANG, Peking University, WENBIN XU, ZHENGXIONG WANG, YUE LIU, Dalian University of Technology — Suppression effects of shear flows on double tearing modes are investigated in a reduced resistive magnetohydrodynamics model. It is found that as poloidal flow shear increased, the growth of the magnetic island generated by the double tearing mode can be greatly suppressed.

¹This work is supported by NSFC and MOST.