New method for calculating the optical absorption spectrum for solids using the transcorrelated method