Opportunities in the Department of Defense

SUHITHI PEIRIS, Defense Threat Reduction Agency

The Department of Defense has many research and fellowship programs. In particular, DARPA, Army, Air Force, Navy and DTRA all have basic research programs that sponsor research in various physics and related areas. Some of these agencies and the DOD also have student and internship programs, including a few targeted to minorities. This presentation will describe some of these programs and opportunities, application procedures, etc., highlighting specifically DTRAs research and internship opportunities.
